GEN. GRANT'S ADMINISTRATION.

Rev. Wm. T. Butler says that he did not declare in his sermon delivered on Sunday, that Gen. Grant was the weakest President the country had ever had, led to that certain acts of the Administration had led to that impression on the part of many persons.

Well, a man is better known by his acts than his professions—and "the impression of many person" is no doubt the correct one. Public opinion made General Grant President in November last almost by acclamation, and public opinion would unmake him President to morrow, if it had the opportunity. Gen Grant is a failure as a civilian, whatever his military qualifications.—He failed in his Inaugural Address, in the selection of his Cabinet, and has failed in the measures of his Administration. He reads no books, makes no study of men or public questions, knows little or nothing of what is done in the Executive Departments, allows an extreme partizan named Tullock, advanced from the Secretaryship of a party committee, to turn out men of great necessity and value to the government, and to put in those demanded by members of Congress and others. He abandons the seat of Government for weeks, allows his Cabinet to be anywhere and everywhere, but at the post of duty, engages in fast driving and constant smoking, and expects to hold the reins of Government as he holds the reins of his fast teams on the beach at Long Branch, Cape May, Annapolis, and elsewhere. But these are among the less causes of grievance against the President. Naturalized American citizens are shot without mercy and almost without trial. Halpine, Wyatt, Polhamus, all were American citizens, and unjustly sacrificed. The President has no time to attend to wrongs done his countrymen in Ireland and Cuba, but plenty of time for attending balls, dinners, visiting friends, and watering places. It is no fiction, therefore, to state, "he is the weakest President the country ever had."—N. Y. Express.

SCENE IN A LIVERPOOL CHURCH.

St. Margaret's church, Liverpool, has lately been the scene of outbreaks and disturbances. The services in connection with its openings were continued on Thursday, and the congregations were large both morning and evening. Lord P. G. Osborne preached in the evening, and at the conclusion of his sermon he addressed some observations to those present on the subject of tolerance. He begged them to be charitable to those opposed to them in doctrine. Should a competent court decide that the teachings of the real presence was not the teaching of the Church of England he was willing to minister no longer, but there was no fear of his going to Rome. It was most un-Christian and un-English to condemn a man while he was on his trial. They, the Ritualists, should not be called dishonest now when a judicial opinion had not been given. After the sermon the officiating clergyman and choristers, bearing crosses and bannerets, walked in procession down the aisle chanting the hymn. This was very distasteful to some of the congregation, who were heard to mutter their displeasure, while others walked out of the church. While this was going on inside the church an excited scene was taking place outside; and murmurs and hootings could be heard by those inside the sacred building. When the doors were thrown open for the congregation to depart, a mob of about three hundred persons collected and hooted the worshippers Mr. Horsfall, by whom the church was built, had to make his escape by the back door of the vestry, and it was some time before clergymen could leave the vestry. A force of police was present, and also a number of detectives, but they could do little in such a mob, and had great difficulty in clearing the streets. It is expected that the police authorities will put a stop to these disturbances.

TRIAL OF A STEAM PLOW.—A steam plow and accompanying apparatus, imported by Col. Wm. E. Patterson from Leeds, England, was lately put in operation on the recent purchase of that gentleman in New Jersey.

Colonel Patterson's large tract of land is to be devoted to the culture of sugar beet. As the soil is a sandy loam, closely akin to that which the French have been so successful in sugar beet culture, Colonel Patterson sees no reason why a profit cannot be realized in this country in the same direction.

The test of this steam plow was made in the presence of a considerable number of people, including General Capron, of the United States Agricultural Bureau at Washington. This gentleman having beaten his sword into a plow-share, has, from the first, taken active interest in the subject of relieving horses from this arduous and exhausting labor. Though his intervention the apparatus, which cost $13,000, was admitted free of duty, and, at its successful operation on Tuesday, no man evinced a higher degree of satisfaction.

The machinery is by no means complicated. At opposite sides of the space to be plowed are two steam engines upon wheels. On the trial on Tuesday stood three hundred yards apart. The plow has six shares. It is a distinct piece of mechanism, and is fastened to a steel wire cable extending between the two locomotives across the ground to be turned over. It is literally a shuttlecock between the two steam battledores. It moves at the speed of a hundred yards a minute, turning six furrows a foot each in width and eight inches in depth. Its average work, therefore, is twenty acres per day. The locomotives are snug machines, capable of being applied to many useful purposes independent of duty as steam plowers.

A man rides on the plow as it crosses the soil. General Capron essayed a trip or two, guiding the machine like an expert upon a velocipede. One of the experts, who mounted it just after him had less good fortune. One of the diggers struck a buried boulder. When an irresistible body in motion strikes against an immovable one a rumpus must be the result. In this case the man upon the machine was slung high into air. The concussion broke off two of the teeth of the digger, but as a new one immediately replaced it, the accident was a matter of little consequence.

Of this large tract of ground much is virgin soil. The trunks of many cedars, showing slight evidences of decay, were brought to light by the steam plowshares. These were crunched up by them as if they were mere touchwood. The soil above them is largely made up of decayed vegetable matter, and, in the opinion of all who were present, the sugar beet will produce in its enormous crops. A digging machine accompanies the plow, intended for use in soils where roots and stones are obstacles to the course of the plowshare.—This is a wonderful apparatus. It so triturates the stiffest soil that a Yankee might put it into bladders and vend it as a substitute for snuff.

To work the machinery costs extremely little. Anything answers as fuel, and at the rate of twenty acres a day, a large estate is soon put under cultivation. The locomotives are then ready for ordinary duty as steam engines, either to grind or thrash, sow or mash.—Journal of Frank. Institute.

PRESIDENT GRANT is enough of a Radical to have reversed the proverb that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The blessing, in his case, goes and comes with the receiving. Not long ago, we chronicled the fact that an old woman at the Jersey Ferry had pressed upon his acceptance a single orange, and, though he hesitated a little, his habit of accepting anything and everything that is offered to him impelled him to take and pocket the paltry present. It is believed that General Grant will take anything, unless it may be the hint that this open-bag business is highly discreditable to the Chief Magistrate of the Union. The latest gift to Grant, which the report quite superfluously says, "was thankfully accepted," was fifty acres of sand barren down in New Jersey. This presentation was made with much ceremony at Bricksburg, New Jersey, on Monday. But as a gift it was worse than the orange; for calling the land worth fifty dollars or so an acre, it takes about two hundred dollars worth of manure to the acre to raise a crop of beans in that region. Therefore, the gift is quite incomplete unless the Loyal League Club or the Grand Army of the Republic unite in providing at least $5,000 worth of manure to go with and upon the fifty acres. In addition, the Tribune might present one or more of the "earth-closets" which it advertises. There need be no hesitation in tendering these gifts. Grant would take the sweepings of the Augean stables if they were offered to him. He declines nothing but good advice.—N. Y. World.

From the Nashville Banner, Aug. 2.

A GHOST.

The Lick Branch bottoms, from the Sulphur Springs away out to the west, where the rising ground commences and where houses and gardens appear, and from the trestle work north where the city begins once more and spreads out into what is known as Germantown, is lonely and sombre after nightfall. It is a dismal waste overflowed every year by inundations of the Cumberland, serrated with gullies overgrown with rank and poisonous weeds, haunted by swine and vagrant dogs who feast upon offal cast out from the streets above. Continuations of Summer, High and Vine streets, like broad metallic bands, cross the waste, dusty in dry weather, and filthy and miry in wet. During the war savage tragedies were enacted here.

A week ago a small party of the wretched people who live on Crawford street, near Vine, sat on the low timber pavement looking out over the bottoms. Eleven o'clock had just been struck, and the echoes had hardly died away from the market house bell, when out on the dreary bottoms, just beyond the trestle, where the moonlight was beginning to fall and to light up the prospect with a weird light, the party saw suddenly a gigantic figure, wrapped from head to foot in a winding sheet. It seemed to come out of the earth and move solemnly from place to place with a species of gliding motion. Obscured a moment by the shadow of the trestle, the strange spectacle next appeared far out on the bottoms, swinging its gaunt arms, disappeared into the earth to appear at another spot soon after.

The effect on the little group of spectators may be imagined. The night, still and solemn, not a breath of air stirring the thin mists which crept up from the diminutive stream which flows through the branch, and before them the horrible figure in white. There was a commotion and crowds rushed forth from the neighboring tenements in all sorts of habiliments and gazed fearfully out at the spectre flitting in the moonlight.

Two men of firmer nerves than the rest, seized their revolvers, and rushing down to the trestle, snapped their pistols several times at the figure, which was leisurely moving before them. But their weapons refused to go off, and suddenly the figure loomed up into gigantic proportions, and then like a flash disappeared into the earth and was seen no more that night.

Several times since, the same figure has appeared and always about the same hour, if reports may be relied upon. One old lady insists that she saw the spectre placidly walking along the top of the trestle work, and that she saw the stars through its thin body as through a veil.

A ROMANTIC INCIDENT.

Some years ago (says the New Orleans Picayune) a gentleman named Paul Escott, a resident of New Orleans, but formerly living in France, lost his little son, a lad of ten years of age, from a vessel off the Canary Islands. It was night at the time, and although every possible exertion was made to rescue the boy, yet were they unsuccessful, and the little fellow was given up for lost. Shortly afterward the family came to New Orleans, and in time the grief of the parents for the loss of their son became only a sorrow living in their memories. He was dead, they thought, and grief could not bring him back to life. But he was not dead. He had got possession of one of the planks thrown out to him, and although missing his friends, was picked up the next day by an English vessel. In this ship he made the voyage to China, and failing to communicate with his family on his return, continued in the employment of the vessel for several years. At last, learning the whereabouts of his family, he reached this city in quest of them a few days since. The joy which the appearance of one they had long considered dead can, as the novelists say, be more easily imagined than described. It was like one risen from the grave, and discloses a series of incidents as fruitful of romance as often engage the pen of the novelist and essayist.

Amount of Income 6,227,071.

SURPLUS OVER LIABILITIES 2,675,999,48.

THE Ætna is the LEADING LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY in North Carolina.

Largest amount of Losses to Widows and Orphans!

The Largest Revenue to the States. And has by far the largest number when compared with 58 Companies reported officially by the Commissioners of New York and Massachusetts it will be seen that the Ætna ranks as one of the first Companies of the Continent. But two of the fifty-eight Companies permitted to do business in New York and Massachusetts had so large an income for the year 1868; but two had so large a number of Policies in force, but one among all those incorporated under the laws of the State of New York had so small a per centage of Expense to Income during the year 1868.

Its expenses are lower than most Companies', and consequently its ability to make and pay liberal dividends to the insured is greater than that of most other Companies. It is one of the great Companies of the land in Income, in Assets, in Number of Policies, in Amount Insured, in Solidity and Strength, in Soundness, Cheapness, Promptness, and Success. Persons contemplating this mode of investment in the future as in the past would do well to examine the claims of all and take a policy accordingly.

Valuable Property for Sale in Raleigh and Wake County.

PURSUANT to a decree of the Court of Equity for this County, I, as Commissioner, will sell at the Court House, to the highest bidder, all of the Real Estate of the late Sarah Stronach, dec'd, to wit:

One House and Lot, in the City of Raleigh, containing two acres, more or less; said house in fair condition, has six rooms and good basement. On the Lot there is a very fine Well of Water and all necessary out-houses. The fences are nearly all of new and sound timber, and the soil in fine condition. There are quite a number of Shade and Fruit Trees on the premises. Also a Lot containing three-fourths of an acre, more or less, near the above mentioned one. Both Lots are on Hargett Street, just beyond the city Cemetery, and on the direct road to the "State Fair Grounds." Also a Tract of Land about five miles from the City, which is very well timbered, and adjoins the lands of W. E. Pierce and others.

This property will be sold on the 28th day of August A. D. 1869.
Terms made known on day of sale.

FADING AS A LEAF.

As fades the leaf, as droops the flower,
As clings to dust the garden power,
As verdure weeds decay,
Thus rosy dreams, enthroned in air,
And charms that made hope's day break fair,
Scarce seen, must pass away.

As fades the leaf, our glory yields
To red, ensanguined battle fields
Ignobly in degrees;
Illusion warbles day by day
In undertone of dull decay—
Spoils perish as they flee.

As fades the leaf, majestic grace,
Beaming like suns from beauty's face,
A day of doom shall know;
And here thoughts, that fill the mind
With wonders fleet as bright, shall find,
But sepulchres below.

Wherever rolling tides we scan
The chequered destiny of man
Portrays doom's last review;
If scenes of joy, they hide a blot;
If charm decoyed, a garden spot
Forestalls grief's retinue.

As fades the leaf, thus fades the trust
That only clings to floating dust
When gathering ills beside;
Decay rebukes the galling aim
And all of charm's deceit, that came
To foster human pride.

Spring seasons vanish, summer's glare
Endows the spectres of despair
That flit through night and gloom;
And autumn's tempest-cradled train
Shall hover o'er the maimed and slain,
Alike in winter's tomb.

From passing hence, from fading
The footsteps of decay fulfil
Their awful destiny.
Each dying flower, each fading leaf,
The tragic lesson breathes, "how bright"—
'Tis unto you and me.

As fades the leaf, thus fades my song
And all the lovely guests that throng,
Hope, love and trust between.
How fleeting! Pain absorbs the trance
And joy's last throb is hastening hence
To guard a d ing scene.

As fades the leaf, thus pass away
Ephemeral creatures of a day,
Death ushers in disguise,
Till disengaged of chrysalis
The host of everlasting bliss
Shall triumph in the skies.

The Age of Progress.

We publish to-day, the first scheme in the sale of Real and Personal Estate—a Company chartered by the last Legislature, with a capital of one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and with power to increase that amount to five hundred thousand dollars. An examination of the charter satisfies us that the Company is pursuing a legitimate business; they are empowered to "dispose of Real and Personal Estate in any mode or form they may deem best," and "all laws, or clauses of laws, coming in conflict with said charter are hereby repealed." This is plain and unmistakable English, and we have no doubt the transactions of the Company will prove beneficial to the property holders of North Carolina. For example; Mr. A. owns a piece of real estate which he wishes to dispose of. He throws it upon the market, and fails to get a bid that would warrant him in making a deed. He then places it in the hands of the North Carolina Real and Personal Estate Agency, at a fair valuation, and the property is sold by chance—the owner gets his price—the Company a fair and reasonable compensation for selling—and some poor man, for two dollars comes in possession of a homestead, which, under any other circumstances, he would not have owned.

In fact, we do not view the Company as a Lottery—it is what it purports to be, a simple Agency for the sale of property, for its true value, which, otherwise would be sacrificed.

We refer our readers to the advertisement—the splendid real estate offered, and the other rich prizes, amounting in all to THREE THOUSAND AND ONE—and the reader will perceive, by the simple rule of division, that there is one prize to every twenty-four tickets.

The General Agent of the Company has given us a call, and assures us, that the success of the Company is no longer a problem. In thirty-five counties through which he has just traveled, he represents the people as being enthusiastic in favor of it—both as to investing, and the placing of property in the hands of the Company for sale. He represents that already, before the first grand drawing has taken place, applications to sell, amounting to half a million dollars, are on file in the Secretary's office.

We learn from the Raleigh papers, that the explanatory drawing which took place in the city of Raleigh, on Saturday last, passed off to the decided satisfaction of a large audience assembled in Tucker Hall to witness it.—Wil. Post.

One three cent stamp must accompany every order. All tickets will have the seal of the Company and signature of the Secretary.

We refer to any Merchant, Banker or other gentleman of standing in the city of Raleigh.

For further description and particulars, address.

SHOES! SHOES!!

A large assortment, come along, bring your Greenbacks, Creech's is the place to buy your Shoes.

Bonnets, Spring styles, some small enough and some large enough. For Ladies, Misses and Childrens trimmed and untrimmed Hats. A beautiful assortment, come lay away your old hat, and always come to Creech's before you buy a new one &c. &c.

Keep it before the people, that I told the people six months ago, that I intended to run through my campaign, with my motto to give each and every individual value received, for their valuable support giving the Ladies a fine opportunity to exercise there inalienable rights, as well as the gentlemen, and since that time thousands have shown their good judgment by coming and demonstrating the truth of my assertion. I tell you Creech's is the place. And permit me to return my sincere thanks for your very liberal and valuable patronage for the last twenty-five years. I hope by strict attention to business and honest dealing, giving each and every one the worth of their money that I will continue to receive a liberal share of your patronage. The rest of my talking I shall do at my place of business which is Creech's Corner Fayetteville Street Raleigh

A PROCLAMATION,

By His Excellency, the Governor of North Carolina.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT OF N. C.,
Raleigh, June 21, 1869.

WHEREAS, Official information has been received at this Department that a vacancy exists in the 19th Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Wake and Franklin, caused by the death of Richard I. Wynne, Esq., late Senator from said District.

Now, therefore, I, WM. W. HOLDEN, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority conferred by law, do issue this proclamation, ordering an election to be held at the several places of voting in the Counties aforesaid, on the first Thursday in August next, for the purpose of filling said vacancy.

Done at our city of Raleigh, this 21st June

[L. S.] 1869, and in the 93rd year of our independence.

W. W. HOLDEN,
Governor.

By the Governor:
W. R. RICHARDSON, Private Secretary.

WARRENTON FEMALE COLLEGE

WARREN CO., N. C.

THIS INSTITUTION WILL BE OPENED ON the 12th of August, under the direction of Rev. T. M. Jones, formerly President of Greensboro Female College.

Warrenton, three miles from the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road, has long been famous for health and refined and intelligent society.

The College buildings, situated in a beautiful grove, in a retired part of the village, are large and commodious, and will be put in thorough repair and well fitted up for school purposes.

With long experience in connection with Female Colleges, a large libary, an extensive Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus, and the aid of an able Faculty, among whom is that accomplished scholar and musician, Prof. F. J. Hahr, we offer superior facilities to young ladies desiring to become well educated and highly accomplished.

Board, exclusive of washing and lights, and tuition in regular College course, per session of 20 weeks, $100 00.

Extra studies, moderate.
